NUMB. 1759

MONDAY, MARCH 16. 1741.

HERE has been lately published a Pamphlet, intituled Reasons founded on Facts, for a late Motion, in a Letter to a Tory Member. A most extraordinary Piece truly; and to shew that a Gazetteer is capable of relishing Sense and Argument tho' on the other Side of the Question, I have taken to make an Abstract of it, and to reduce it into the Form of a Speech; in which, considering its Force lies in Declamation, I conceive it will be as good a Figure as it does in a Pamphlet: for, because I have some Grounds to suspect it is originally no more than a Speech. It ran thus:

With Concern and Amazement that we the Patriots in Great Britain, behold your late Conduct towards us, in a Case wherein we frankly avow we had the Proceedings against the Earl of Strafford in View; and, like the Patriots of Forty One, aimed at piecing out the Law, and the full Measure of our Relentment. It is some of you Tories turn'd Tail, even on a memorable Occasion; and there is still upon a Speech of Lord Digby, who, like another was excessively fond of the Laws and Constitution could not think of wounding them, even a Minister on the other Side. But we had an Opinion of you; otherwise we should have let the Precedent set us by our Predecessors in Forms, and have brought down a Mob, armed with their usual Arguments Stones and Broomsticks, with a Cry in their Mouths equivalent to this our History say was made Use of on that Occasion. If we cannot have the Earl of Strafford's Life, we have the King's. Let us expostulate a little on your Behaviour, and examine the Validity of your boasted that you could not go along with a Charge supported by Proofs, that you expected Facts to be stated, and full Evidence given. It might be gentlemen, but what we complain of is, that we have no Room to suppose you expected any Things, otherwise we could have revived the tales in Durham-Yard, and taken proper Measures importing Witnesses, especially as to two or three Points, which as they were framed, so we reason to hope they could be proved by a Person on the other Side the Water.

Our first setting out, when either upon our quitting being displaced, we took upon us the Stile of Patriots, did you not receive us as without having any Thing but our bare Words; and this too when there were some unlucky instances which seem'd to have quite another such as our having always treated you with civilities when in Power, even to the driving you out of the Kingdom.

It is not our Affirmation that you believed all in a Bad Way at Home, and a worse Abroad? or any Evidence upon Earth, that our Manufactures were decay'd, that our Shipping were decay'd, that our Land-sold at a low Rate, that no Interest in Foreign Parts, that our Negotiations were weakly conducted, that our Fleets did when they cost a great deal; had you, I say, any Evidence upon Earth of all this, except what I say; and which is more, did not it enter us, and act upon all Occasions as if we believed it?

As to the Army, Have not they always been themselves with the greatest Submission to Civil Power; have they not been frequently cudgell'd by Mobs, with their Muskets on their backs; have not you yourselves made a Jest of wearing Red Coats, and being so shy of spilling Blood, as dreadful to yourselves, dangerous to others, and destructive of the Constitution, merely we put it in your Heads, tho' many of us had before had Commands in it? When you had been for Years, did you not come round again, in the strangest Way in the World to render Military Countrymen harmless, by augmenting your Power, without any Shadow of Reason other than our Assurances, that how rough soever the Medicine might seem, it would work kindly, and have a happy Effect?

Did you not with great Courage and Constancy, through a long Train of fruitless Enquiries into the State of the National Debt, the Account of the Navy, the Dunkirk Business, the Charitable Corporation, the Management of the South Sea Company, &c. follow us your Leaders, and take it upon trust, that there was still something wrong at bottom, tho' after all our sounding, diving, and sometimes dipping over Head and Ears, we could not fish it out? I will not say much of the Excise Scheme, because some of you did give us the slip in the Customhouse Committee, and because some of us speeched for that Scheme, tho' we damn it and its Author now.

Tho' Religion was never much our Care, yet once upon a time, if you remember, we took it into our Heads to cajole a great Body of People, by pretending to give them what we knew was out of our Power, did not Numbers of you go along with us then, and kick your Principles out of the way? Tho' we could not rid them of the Test, we look'd upon that very Attempt as a new Test with respect to you, and took it for granted that Men who, to keep us company, turn'd their Backs upon the Church, would enter any Breach, if we had but Spirit enough to lead them. And sure whoever considers and compares Times past and present, will think we had Reason so to do. But alas! we were mistaken in our Politicks, and can it seems guess no better at the Strength of our Friends than of our Foes. But if this be our Misfortune, it is your Fault.

In the tender Point of transacting with Foreigners, were not we always the Chiefs, and did not you implicitly abet our Measures when we thought fit to turn Germans all at once; and to shew a greater Zeal for the House of Austria, than for any other House upon Earth, did not you desert your old Friends, the French, and concur with us in palming a certain Memorial upon the Court of V—? Came you not round with us afterwards on the Publication of the Hague Letter, and charge it as a Crime upon People, that they were willing to overlook some Failings in our old natural Ally? As to Spain and to the Cardinal, I could say a great many things, but that they are by no means proper, because we have all made some extraordinary Changes in our Opinions, otherwise how should the Opposition have been kept upon its Legs? But what I have said is sufficient to demonstrate that we were your political Godfathers, and promised and vowed in your Name, tho' you have slipped from us at the point of Confirmation.

But, to come to the great Affair, have we not clamour'd in Concert against the Minister for a dozen Years together, and why? Was it not because we said, that he ought to be pulled down? When we call'd his mild Administration at home a System of Corruption, did you not applaud so well contriv'd a Charge? When we affirm'd his Negotiations to be weak and dishonourable, tho' for many Years they answered their Ends, were not you always of our Mind? Did not you cry our Invectives against him up to the Skies, and now you cry out for Evidence! Why, Gentlemen, in the name of Wonder, what would you have? Are not the Fourteen Volumes of Craftsmen in each of your Studies Evidence sufficient, if not, Lord, what have we, nay what have you been doing!

To what End, Gentlemen, have We hitherto invented and You believed? Why did you never think of your Principles before now? If you had shewn the least Inclination to doubt any thing we thought fit to assert, we might have taken Warning; but after trying how far your Throats would stretch, by chucking one strange Story down after another, without any other Assistance than our vouching boldly for their Truth, to see you start now at the Capital Medicine! Guess at our Concern, for there is no speaking it! To embrace every Assertion but the Assertion of Assertions, to admit every Item of the Account and yet allow the Total to be wrong! Well, to be sure you think you have spoiled our Trade for ever. But, Gentlemen, you are mistaken, we are determin'd to assert—that you are in a State of Repentance.—O, that you would give a little Credit to this Assertion by your Behaviour! and then all things might go right,—or, to speak it out, go as wrong again as ever.—I say no more.—A Word to the Wife!—If you do not mind me, we shall all look like Fools.—Adieu!

Berlin, March 7. N. S.

THE Marquis de Vallory, the French Minister, having receiv'd an Express from his Court, in the Night between the 4th and 5th Instant, set out Yesterday Morning early for Silesia. Besides the seven Regiments of Foot, which it is said are raising in Silesia, his Prussian Majesty has ordered two new Regiments of Dragoons to be forthwith raised, each of ten Squadrons: One is to be commanded by Count Rottembourg, lately arrived from Paris; and the other by M. Nassau, a Silesian, who has been Colonel of Horse in the Saxon Service. There is also a Talk of two more Regiments of Dragoons, one of five Squadrons to be raised by M. Knobelsdorf, and another of ten Squadrons to be raised by Major General Reitzel, who quitted the Austrian Service some Months ago.

L O N D O N, March 16.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France.

The last Advices from Madrid say, that an Express was very lately arriv'd there from the Prince de Campo Florido the Spanish Minister at Paris, with Dispatches both from that Prince, and from the Count de Montijo who stopp'd at Paris in his Way to the Dyet of Frankfurt; that the Contents of the Letters are kept very secret, but that 'tis certain the Spanish Court is not at all pleas'd with them; and that for this Reason the Count de la Marche's Friends are very glad he was gone before they came.

They write from Hanover, that the Baron de Saxheim, who is come with an important Commission to that Court from the Queen of Hungary and the Great Duke of Tuscany, has had several Conferences with the Ministers of that Electorate, concerning the Succours which the Queen of Hungary promises herself from the King of Great Britain in the present Juncture. They tell us that the Ministers assur'd the Baron, that the Queen might depend on the King's punctual Performance of the Engagements he was under by the Guaranty of the Pragmatic Sanction: That his Majesty hop'd several other Powers concern'd in the said Guaranty would second his good Intentions; but as the Methods for a Reconciliation ought always to be try'd, so long as there were Hopes of any Success, it was necessary, before coming to a Determination, to wait the Success of the new Minister just sent to Berlin; viz. the Baron de Schweigeldt, a Member of the Privy-Council and of the War-Office, who is to propose to the King of Prussia's Ministers certain Preliminaries for an Accommodation.

The Governor of Port Mahon having landed at Marseilles, is expected in England by the way of France.

The Paris Alaman of Wednesday last says, that M. de Belzune, Son of M. Castelmoron, Master of the Wolf-hunters in France, was lately attack'd, as he was going to Versailles, by three Highwaymen, one of whom attempting to seize the Bridle of the Horses in order to stop them, was laid flat on the Ground by the Postilion, and the Chaise drove over him; whereupon his two Accomplices fearing a Discovery gave him four

Steps

Stabs in the Body, and left him, as they thought, for dead; but being found next Day alive, he told who were his Accomplices, and one of them is actually apprehended.

Yesterday the Right Rev. Dr. Secker Lord Bishop of Oxford preach'd before the King, the Duke and the Princesses, at the Chapel Royal at St James's.

To-morrow the Right Hon. the Lord Chancellor will hold the 4th and last General Seal after Hillary Term at Lincoln's Inn Hall.

On Friday Night last died of a Fever, at her House in Brook Street Grosvenor-square, the Right Hon. the Countess of Northampton, Wife to the present Earl: She was Daughter of Robert late Earl Ferrers, and Sister and sole Heiress to Robert late Lord Viscount Tamworth.

On Saturday last the Corpse of George Purvis, Esq; Member of Parliament for Aldborough in Suffolk, and one of the Commissioners of the Navy, was carried from Cambray House at Islington in order to be interred near Aldborough, amongst his Ancestors.

His Majesty has been pleased to order Letters Patent to pass the Great Seal, for granting the Dignity of a Baronet of Great Britain unto Nathaniel Thorold of Harmliton in the County of Lincoln, Esq;

Next Wednesday come on at Bristol the Trials of Capt. Godere, Mahone and White, for the Murder of Sir John Dinely Goodere, Bart.

We hear that on Thursday last ended the Affizes at Northampton, where Bryan Connell (taken up in September last by Col. De Veil, for the Murder of Richard Brimley a Butcher at Loufey Weedon, a Village near Northampton) took his Trial, which lasted above three Hours, when he was found guilty both of the Murder and Robbery. It appeared that he, with some other Persons not yet taken, gave him 14 or 15 Wounds, and cut off his Head, so that it hung only by some Sinews. And Elizabeth Watson, who was Evidence for the King, and who was committed also by Col. De Veil as such, gave her Testimony so clearly, and gave so exact an Account of every Circumstance attending that cruel Murder, that the Judge and all the Hearers were perfectly satisfied: Besides which, the Persons at whose Houses the Murderers lay appeared in Court, to justify that they were there the Night before the Murder, and brought some of the Murderers Goods which had been left there. Amongst other Things there was an extraordinary Piece of Evidence given by Elizabeth Watson, that walking some Time after the Murder, just upon the Spot of Ground where it was committed, with Bryan Connell, and one or two more of that Gang, he saw a Robin Red Breast in a Bush, and threw the Stick he had in his Hand at it, and knock'd it down, and bringing it to Elizabeth Watson said, this is not the first Thing kill'd here, this is the Place where we murder'd the Butcher. There were at Northampton some Newgate Solicitors, and other infamous Persons (of which Col. De Veil had Notice) and who were well known to him, who came to attend the Trial of Bryan Connell, to swear him elsewhere at the Time of the Murder, and to give him a good Character; but their own being so well known to the Colonel (tho' ten in Number) not one appeared in Court.

Col. De Veil, at his leaving Northampton, had the Honour to be thank'd publicly in the Name of the County by the High Sheriff of it, for the good Service he had done, and the Pains he had taken, in bringing so barbarous a Murder to Light, and received great Civilities from the whole Town of Northampton.

Bryan Connell is to be hang'd in Chains on the Spot where the Murder was committed.

Also his TRIAL, with some Additions; together with 30 Authors cited by him, and a new and more copious whole Work.

Sir WALTER RALEIGH'S History of the World is so vast a Compass, such endless Variety, that no one adventurous as his own, durst have undertaken so great a Design. I do not apprehend any great collecting and common-placing an Universal History, whole Body of Historians; that is nothing but Labour. But to digest the several Authors in it, to take in all their Majesties, Strength, and to raise the Spirit of meaner Historians, and to improve Excellencies of the best, is Sir Walter's peculiar Style is the most perfect, the happiest, and most judicious Age he wrote in, majestic, clear, and appears every-where so superior, rather than in his Subject, that the Spirit of Rome and Athens be breathed into his Work.

Majesty King George II. Consisting of an exact and impartial Collection not only of such Speeches and Debates as have already appeared in Print (in Pamphlets and scatter'd Volumes all which are carefully revised and amended;) but several original Speeches taken in Short hand, and never before published, with the Numbers Pro and Con upon every Division.
To which is added an Appendix, consisting of 1. Several Papers necessary to illustrate some Particulars in the Course of the Debates. 2. The Names of the Members who voted on the most remarkable Points, with their several Posts under the Government. 3. Complete Lists of every Parliament.

ple-Bar, and sold by the Booksellers in Town and Country.

The History, Proceedings, Speeches, and Debates in the House of Commons of Great Britain, from the Restoration of King Charles II. to the Death of Queen Anne; where the afore said Work begins. In Two Volumes 8vo. Price 10 s.
N. B. The Two Works above-mentioned contain all the Commons Debates: Either of which may be had separate.

Be careful to observe,
That the Edition of the Debates in Parliament, printed at Dublin in Nine Volumes Octavo, and since reprinted at London, is only a literal Transcript of the Political States and Historical Registers, without any Method, Order, or Connection, but is full of Blunders and Mistakes; there is not one Speech of the Commons in that Edition but what is inserted in the English Edition printed in Three Volumes Octavo; but there are a very Great Number of Speeches in this that are not in the Collection in Nine Volumes, which only come down to the Year 1731; and are so very loosely printed, that Three Pages of the Edition in Three Volumes contains near Seven of that in Nine Volumes; and is brought down to the Year 1734.

The disguised Publishers of the Edition in Nine Volumes, well knowing the Truth of the above Assertion, have made Use of their Interest (as Partners in several Publick Papers) to forbid the inserting of my Advertisement, thereby hoping still to continue their Imposition on the Publick, under the Name of a Person remarkable for every valuable Qualification, and whose late extraordinary Letter to the Booksellers (concerning the large Number of Books left in his or their Hands, which now continue to be sold against, and in Contempt of the Order of THE HOUSE OF LORDS) deserves a suitable Notice.

I therefore take the Liberty to acquaint the SEVERAL GENTLEMEN behind the Screen, that I shall publish a List of their many Blunders and Mistakes in a few Days, and I think it would be greatly to the Credit of their Book to subjoin their several Names to the Publisher's, that the Publick might not be unacquainted with Persons of the greatest Honour and Reputation in Trade.

Lords, for printing the Debates of the House of Commons, in finding no Demand for them, and having nothing to
